Very Remarkable Cure of Diarrhoea.

"About six years ago for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Bosque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that I was well again, or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents, cured me." For sale by All Druggists.

To the Teachers of Sioux County.

It has been decided that the final examinations of the Normal will be held in the afternoons of the last week of the normal, and that the forenoons of that week will be devoted to professional institute work; so the institute sessions will begin at 8 o'clock each morning of the last week and continue to 12 o'clock noon, and the afternoons will be given to normal examinations or to such examinations as each county Superintendent may elect.
I am pleased to announce that the Bixby Gregg debate will be held on Aug. 3rd; Governor Mickey will lecture Aug. 5th; The Wesleyan Male Quartette will be present August 11th; and congressman E. J. Burkett will lecture August 14th, and during the last week of the normal, we are promised one or more instructors of national reputation. The above inducements ought to be sufficient to insure the attendance during the last two weeks of the normal, of every wide-awake teacher in this district.
Every teacher and prospective teacher of Sioux county, not already in attendance, should not fail to attend the last two weeks of the Junior Normal school. If it is impossible to attend two weeks, you should attend the last week as it will constitute the Sioux County Teachers Institute and attendance is as necessary as at a county institute. A great effort is being put forth to make this the best institute ever held in this part of the state. Able instructors and lecturers have been secured, as named above, and no doubt the institute will be a grand success. No one should miss the opportunity, so let every one be on time.
In accordance with the school laws of Nebraska I ask that all schools in the county be closed during the institute week of the normal.
Yours Very Respectfully
CONRAD PARSONS,
Co. Supt.

John W. Hunter Either Fell or Leaped From Night Train Platform.

John W. Hunter of Harrison Neb., met death last night by either jumping or falling from the New York Central train due in this city at 11 o'clock. Hunter was apparently a wealthy man and was about 60 years of age. The train was running at a rate of about forty miles an hour when Hunter disappeared. Those on the train with Hunter state that he had insisted upon going out on the rear platform to ride several times and had only been prevented from doing so by force. He at last succeeded, and whether he jumped from the train with desire to commit suicide or whether he merely lost his balance and fell is not known.
As soon as it was known that he had fallen from the cars the train was stopped and backed up to the scene and the mangled body was found lying on the tracks near Oswego junction. The train brought the news of the accident to this city and a light engine carrying Dr. W. Louis Hartman went to the spot. Hunter was found still alive and was taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Joseph McCarthy's ambulance, where he died soon after his injuries.
The dead man was identified by letters which he carried in his clothes. He also had a baggage check issued at Harrison, Neb., and good to Albany, which is supposed to have been the destination of the man.
Was in a Jolly Mood.
A fellow passenger, speaking of the affairs, says that he talked freely with Hunter on the way from Buffalo and that he appeared jolly and in the best of spirits. "As we approached Syracuse," said the man, "Hunter showed a desire to ride on the platform, and starting for the door was pulled back into the car by me. I was not looking when at last he succeeded in his attempt and just saw him as he made a frantic clutch at the bell cord in falling. I then gave the alarm. I hardly think he committed suicide. He was in too jolly a frame of mind to have done that."
The body was taken to Undertaker Joseph McCarthy's where it lies awaiting the arrival of relatives, for whom a search by telegraph is being made.—Syracuse Telegram July 21.
FELL FROM CENTRAL TRAIN.
John W. Hunter of Harrison, Neb., brought to this city from Oswego Junction lying.
John W. Hunter of Harrison, Neb., either jumped or fell from New York Central train No. 35, due in this city at 11 o'clock last night. The accident occurred at Oswego Junction, just east of the State fair grounds.
Hunter, who had come through from the West, was riding in the smoker with several men who had come through from Buffalo. Once or twice he had started to go out to the platform, but had been kept inside by the other men. Finally, however, he stepped out for a moment and before anyone could reach him he fell from the platform. All who were near him say that the man had not been drinking.
One of the men who saw him fall at once pulled the bell cord but the train ran along west into the city before it could be brought to a stop. Instead of going back to the scene of the accident the train then came on to the city and Night Station Master Coogan sent a light engine back after the body with Mr. W. L. Hartman and Undertaker Joseph McCarthy aboard.
In the meantime the body had been discovered by some railroad men near the scene of the accident. They sent word at once to Undertaker McKinley in West Fayette street, who went to the place where Hunter lay, still breathing and bleeding badly. McKinley was not allowed by the railroad men, however, to move the body and they waited for the engine to come from the city.
Just as soon as the engine arrived, Hunter was taken aboard and brought to the city. The man was grasping for breath all the while, his head jerking at every breath. After the arrival in the city Hunter was taken in Joseph McCarthy's ambulance to St. Joseph's hospital, where he died soon after.
On the man's body were found several letters and memoranda by which he was identified. In one of the packets more than $100 was found together with baggage checks issued at Harrison Neb., to Albany. His baggage is in Albany to-day awaiting disposition of the railroad officers, who hold it subject to the orders of the dead man's relatives. He had also a check for $300 and a bank book showing deposits of $4.00.
Mr. Hunter was apparently a well-to-do man, 55 or 60 years old. He was dressed in a light suit. His left arm had been amputated just above the elbow.

He wore a dark beard with a sprinkling of gray.

The body is at Joseph McCarthy's undertaking rooms this morning, were it has been reviewed by Coroner Matthews. The railroad authorities have wired to Nebraska for instructions as to the disposal of the remains.
—From Syracuse Evening Herald July 21 1903.
The above clippings give all the information we have been able to get in regard to the death of Mr. Hunter, and for which his relatives and friends feel thankful. We feel sure that he did not jump from the train, for all state that were with him at the time that he was not drinking, nor in a suicidal mood.
In a conversation with him the day before he started east, he was lamenting the death of his wife, and he said time did not seem to heal the wound in the loss of his beloved one, but as the days went by he missed her more and more, and recognized the preciousness of a true and loyal wife. We have known Mr. Hunter personally for 17 years and while he had his faults as well as all men he had that tender love for his family and friends that can only come from the God that created him after his own image and likeness, and his familiar form will be missed not only by his family but by his many friends as well.

OBITUARY.

John W. Hunter died at Syracuse, New York on July 22, 1903. He was born in Cumberland county, Nova Scotia Dec. 11, 1842, and was 61 years old. He enlisted as a private in Co. I, 19th regiment of Massachusetts volunteers for 3 years service, but was discharged January 6th, 1863 by reason of the amputation of his left arm, which wound was received at the battle of Fredericksburg. He was wounded six times during the time he served. He returned to Nova Scotia in 1874, and on October 19th of that year he was married to Miss Margaret C. Dixon at River Phillips, Nova Scotia. In 1885 he moved to Sioux county, where he resided up to the present time.
Mr. Hunter made many friends and was a man that took great interest as a citizen of the welfare of the county. He was county Judge for four years in the county's early organization, and gave satisfaction in the many places of public trust that he has held.
He leaves a family of eight children, three boys and five girls. Three girls are married and all reside here except Mrs. Fitzgerald who lives at Lexington, Neb. His wife died about a year ago and since that time his mind was very unsettled as to what to do, but as God has seen best to call him away in the manner he did, we bow our heads in humble submission to His will, recognizing that he does all things for the best.
Services were held by Rev. Emory E. Zimmerman at the Bodare church, and a large concourse of friends gathered to pay their last tribute of respect to the remains of one that was once a friend to them all. The body was inclosed in a beautiful casket and was covered with flowers, and draped with the American flag which he loved so well.
The body was placed by the side of his wife in the Bodare cemetery to await the general resurrection, from which there will be no parting or pain, but that all shall praise His Holy name.
The family has the heartfelt sympathies of all, and pray the love of God that passeth all understanding care for and provide for those little ones that are left without father or mother.
